SHS Athlete Heading To Down Under Bowl In Australia

By Phyllis A. Muzeroll e-Ticker News

CLAREMONT, NH--The height she has marked in her bedroom is 5'2". Now, that may not be a remarkable height for most people to ponder on. but in high jumping for a Stevens High School Senior, that's a goal that Marion Lovett has set her sights on. And it's likely one she will reach one day.

In the meantime, Lovett is training for an adventure of a lifetime: attending the 2016 Down Under Bowl event in Australia in July. International Sports Specialists, Inc. (ISSI) was founded in February, 1989, based on the dream of a New Zealander by the name of George O'Scanlon who fell in love with athletics, especially American football (gridiron) as a young man growing up in his native country of New Zealand. His desire over the years has been to promote gridiron, not only to the people of New Zealand, but also to Australia where he lived for many years. For over 20 years, ISSI has had the opportunity to share the land Down Under with tens of thousands of individuals from across the United States.

Marion Lovett

Scouted for her abilities in track and field, and in particular, the high jump, Lovett was invited to be one of several hundred athletes from the United States to participate in the upcoming games. At the Bowl, Lovett is planning to concentrate on one event, the high jump. When it comes to sports, though, the high jump and field hockey are her two favorite events. Not only will Lovett be representing Claremont and Stevens High School, she will be one 300 athletes representing the United States this summer.

Lovett said participating in the games will give her the chance "to do something I love. It's going to be fun." The event runs from July 4 through the 14, but she will be leaving on the 2nd, traveling with other athletes with whom she will meet up at the airport. Her parents, Robert and Charlene, will be traveling to Australia to see their daughter in action; Charlene is the Mayor of Claremont. On the way back, the team will be stopping for a visit in Hawaii, something that Lovett is very excited about.

Lovett, who is 5'10", trains faithfully at her sport and has "almost jumped five feet, which is a record for the school. I'm aiming for 5'2", which would be a new record."

$5,000; thus far, she has raised $1,100 and is working on fundraisers to help her raise the rest of the money. Her parents have loaned her the money for the trip with the understanding that she pays it back. She hopes to have a table at the Farmers Market--from the ages of 10 to 14, she had a booth at the market, selling a variety of goods. She is also doing a "You've Been Flagged" fundraiser; with a $15 dollar donation, you can choose someone's house in the community to "flag". For 24 hours, their house will be decorated with American flags and pinwheels, in honor of Independence Day (July 4th). After the 24 hours, the decorations will be moved to another person's house. And on June 21st and the 22nd, New Socials in downtown Claremont will donate 10% of the profits made over these two days to her fundraising goal.

When asked why she loves doing the high jump, Lovett said, "I love the feeling of flying. I know that sounds funny, but I love roller coasters and helicopters. When I jump, it's been to see how high I can get. I used to be a fan of running, but now I have a passion for the high jump." Lovett's athletic abilities have not gone unnoticed; a scout one time noted that it was impressive that a sophomore had made State. She skips, jogs and does back bends as part of her training for the high jump and watches tapes of the Olympics to get pointers on how to improve her technique in her favorite sport.

"If I can do five feet at the competition, I will be very happy," she said with a big smile.

Inspiration

One of the things my readers know me for is supporting any cause or group that helps children. Sam's Ride is one of those groups. They describe themselves as "...a group of motorcycle riders who raise funds for the Sam Biggs Memorial Foundation. It's all about childhood cancer awareness." This group is a fantastic group that I'm excited to promote. They hold bike ride events to raise money for research, awareness, and families of children who suffer various forms of childhood cancer.

I am especially proud of this organization because it was started by some dear friends of mine when their cousin, Sam Biggs, was diagnosed with cancer around March of 2014. Sam passed away at the age of 7 in January of 2015 from hepatoblastoma, but before his death, his cousin Mackenzie Miller and her best friend Alexis Scroggins (then only 12-years-old themselves) asked their parents if they could create a fundraising bike ride to help Sam's parents with the costs of his treatment. This came about because Mackenzie and Alexis' parents rode regularly, and the girls saw this as a great opportunity to put those rides to good use. The first ride was in Bunker Hill, IL and raised around $300-$400 with only 2 riders and the girls spreading the word. The girls then asked to do the same thing with another ride after a company picnic where their fathers worked a short time later, where they raised $800 through 10 riders. They were only asking for $20 donations, and no one there knew Sam. The second annual ride for 2015 raised $1000 for the Bunker Hill ride, and $1400 for a ride in Missouri. This year will mark the 3rd annual ride, and all of the proceeds will go to help children in Sam's memory. One group that will benefit is Friends of Kids with Cancer. The most amazing thing about this foundation is that it is completely operated by these two incredible young ladies, now age 14. They make nothing from this other than the joy of knowing they are making a difference. This year, one biker group is likely to bring in 20-30 riders, with another bringing in another 75. That is over 100 riders. Great work for a fund raising group that was created and is currently being run by two 14-year-old girls. Plus, riders from other states are asking about how they can get involved as well.

I asked Mackenzie, "How does it feel to have created such a great organization to help kids like Sam?" Her answer was simple, "It feels absolutely great, because it shows the families of these children that they're not alone and we care about them. It feels amazing knowing that I'm helping out families who go through this." Having grown up with this amazing young lady's mother, I'm not at all surprised that she and her friend have hearts that are so full of love. What is amazing to me, however, is seeing how they have built this fund raising group from the ground up by convincing a group of bikers to ride for childhood cancer, and showing the world at the same time the big hearts that make up today's biker groups. The adults are simply, as Mackenzie's father, Thomas, told me, "babysitting it until they are old enough to do it on their own." The girls call all the shots. As Thomas said, "This is their baby." Brings tears to my eyes to imagine how sweet Sam is smiling down on these girls and their hard work right now.

This year's annual event is the 3rd Annual Benefit for the Sam Biggs Memorial Foundation. All proceeds will go directly to the foundation for childhood cancer awareness, research, and helping families deal with the effects and costs of childhood cancer. According to a statement from the foundation, they "...plan on being able to raise funds for all types of cancer, specifically stage 4 hepatoblastoma [a form of liver cancer]." There will be food and drink venders as well as door prizes for raffles. The event will be held Saturday, August 6th, from 9:30 - 6:00. For more details on this event, please visit their Facebook page at https://www.facebook.com/events/1729597927279521/.

The foundation is still early in its creation and still trying to obtain their tax id number. They do have their bylaws and are licensed as a non-profit by the government. However, it takes thousands of dollars to do all of this, and the families who work with this foundation do everything out of pocket. They could use all the help they can get. Both truck drivers and bikers are coming together for this foundation's success, so please spread the word and do what you can to help.

Moody Park Marks 100th Anniversary With Special Events

CLAREMONT, NH--June 2016 marks an important anniversary for the City of Claremont and the Parks and Recreation Department. It was 100 years ago that William Moody donated a portion of his property to the residents of Claremont to be used as a free public park. Since then, Claremont residents and others from surrounding communities have enjoyed many hikes, picnics, bike rides, and times spent relaxing in the park. In 2013-2014, the selective timber harvest, as part of the City's forest management plan changed the land-scape of Moody Park.

"We are going into the 3rd year after the timber harvest and new growth in the park has been prevalent," explained Mark Brislin, Director of Parks and Recreation. "Upgrades to existing trails and the addition of new trails have sparked a new excitement within the park and the view of Mount Ascutney from the top of Moody Park has been reclaimed," he added.

Throughout the month of June, the Parks and Recreation Department and other various groups within the community will be offering programs to help celebrate the 100-year anniversary and showcase the many uses of Moody Park.

Below is a list of programs that will be offered throughout the month of June. Please be sure to visit the department's website at www.claremontparks.com for up to date information or call the Parks and Recreation Department for more information at 542-7019.

What's With All the Cut and Paste???

Bothersome, isn't it? Cutting and pasting information from your already attached résumé makes applying for position postings online seem like a full-time job in and of itself. And for the unemployed, it is your primary goal. So, although it may seem a hassle, do what your future employer asks of you, and fill out the online application to their specifications. You show commitment, dedication and most importantly sincere interest in fulfilling their employment needs.

Some job application systems are formatted to use the data you enter to match you with open positions, as it is much faster than a human resources professional personally reviewing each and every application for key words and phrases. These HR pros want the information in the format they require rather than having to search for it wherever you happened to include it (if at all) in your résumé. So skip the extra application step at your peril. You may not even be considered for the job, or you'll look like someone who cannot follow directions or is simply lazy. (Now, now. You don't want to be calling these hiring managers lazy; they have mountains on their plates and often get hundreds of résumés for online job postings. The onus is on you to make selecting your application easier.) A great way to stand out from the crowd is to bring your resume in, know about the company and ask for a meeting. What a great way to show initiative, interest and excitement about the opportunity!! It is daunting and takes a brave soul, but the benefits you reap could be the next step to a new career.

While we're on the subject of filling in online job applications, please pay attention to capitalization. It is unprofessional to see applications with names or other proper nouns typed in all lower case or incorrect spelling. That's just as bad – no, worse – than SHOUTING in all caps. After all, you are smarter than a 5th Grader, aren't you? These details can take you out of the running in a matter of seconds.

Go ahead; have a little rant about all the extra work of filling out online job applications. Then... do it anyway, it is your future at hand...

Finding Butterflies! With Jerry Schneider

Tuesday, June 28, 10:00 a.m.

Jerry Schneider will present a slide presentation of Eastern Butterflies. Audiences will learn the importance of leaving the screen and electronics behind, getting out in the fields, back roads and waterways, and investigating places where butterflies find food and lay their eggs.

In addition, we will discuss differences between butterflies and moths, where to find butterflies and how to attract butterflies to our gardens. We will learn interesting butterfly facts and behaviors-did you know that butterflies taste with their feet? Or that the Viceroy butterfly, looks like the Monarch and is protected because birds tend to avoid the poisonous and distasteful Monarch?

After the slide show, children will create their own butterfly tee shirts (heavy 100% cotton) using a combination of Rit fabric dye sprays, plants, and butterfly cut outs. Children may purchase heavy cotton shirts for $4.00, or bring their own. Sponsored by: the Friends of the Fiske Free Library; 542-7017.

Fisher Cats Lose 2-1 In Ten Innings

AKRON, OH--The New Hampshire Fisher Cats couldn't avoid the sweep Sunday afternoon, falling 2-1 in 10 innings on Father's Day to the Akron RubberDucks at Canal Park in Akron.

The Fisher Cats (29-39) dropped to a season-worst 10 games below .500 with the loss, their seventh walk-off loss of the season. The RubberDucks (41-29) completed their first sweep of New Hampshire since June 4-6 of 2013 in Akron. Dwight Smith, Jr. extended his hitting streak to 16 games with a first-inning single, matching a career-long stretch and moving into a tie for third place all-time for a Fisher Cat.

Akron took the early lead in the bottom of the first inning against Fisher Cats starter Casey Lawrence, who issued a one-out walk to Bradley Zimmer. The speedy Zimmer then stole second and third, coming in on a two-out single by Nellie Rodriguez to give Akron the 1-0 lead.

New Hampshire evened it up in the top of the third against Akron starting pitcher Rob Kaminsky. Wilkin Castillo led off the frame with a double to deep left and moved to third on a sacrifice bunt. Roemon Fields then punched a single to left, scoring Castillo and tying the game 1-1.

The score stayed knotted up until the bottom of the tenth inning, as reliever Jason Berken (L, 2-7) surrendered a leadoff single to Jeremy Lucas. With new reliever Matt Dermody in the game, Jordan Smith socked a triple to right, plating Lucas for the winning run.

Lawrence earned a no-decision, allowing a run on four hits and two walks over six innings. His nine strikeouts matched a career high. Berken took the loss despite three innings of good relief, giving up a run on three hits and fanning one. Dermody failed to retire the only batter he faced.

The Fisher Cats will try to right the ship Monday night against the Erie SeaWolves, with righty Casey Lawrence starting for New Hampshire against Akron lefty Rob Kaminsky. First pitch from Canal Park is at 2:05 p.m., and Ben Gellman has the call starting at 1:45 p.m. on the Fisher Cats Radio Network.

Clifford the Big Red Dog will be appearing at the next Fisher Cats home game on June 24, courtesy of NHPTV. It's also Olympic Night! It's almost time for the 2016 Summer Olympics, so come celebrate the rich history of the Olympics with us on Olympic Night! 2016 NH Moose Permit Auction Now Open CONCORD, NH--The Wildlife Heritage Foundation of New Hampshire announces the launch of the 2016 NH Moose Permit Auction, its primary fundraiser to support the programs of the N.H. Fish and Game Department. Official bid guidelines and documents can be downloaded from the Foundation's website at www.nhwildlifeheritage.org/moose-permit-auction or by calling (603) 496-2778. Sealed bids are due by August 5, 2016.

This year marks the eighth annual auction run by the Wildlife Heritage Foundation of New Hampshire. For the third year in a row, the Foundation is authorized to auction two permits, which is consistent with statewide moose population goals. The two highest bidders in the auction will receive free 2016 New Hampshire moose hunt permits, as well as 2016 New Hampshire general hunting licenses. Last year, the auction garnered bids from three states, with the highest bids tied at $14,001. The winners were from New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

Successful bidders in the 2016 auction will be able to harvest one moose of either sex in a Wildlife Management Unit of their choice. Individuals who receive a permit in the 2016 New Hampshire open moose hunt lottery are subject to the rules of the lottery, and will not be eligible to participate in the auction. Additional information on moose hunting in New Hampshire, including rules, permits, licenses and a gallery of photos from successful N.H. hunts, can be found at www.huntnh.com/hunting/moose.html.

Proceeds from the auction help support critical fish and wildlife conservation initiatives, along with education programs of the Department, such as Barry Conservation Camp, the Owl Brook Hunter Education Center, Freshwater Angler Survey, Great Bay Discovery Center, Operation Game Thief, Wildlife Recreation Access Program, aerial stocking of remote ponds, Wildlife Management Area signs and kiosks, and support of the Law Enforcement Division's Canine Unit.
