Cardinals Defeat Hilltoppers in Quarterfinal Action, 33-6

The Stevens Cardinals made the long trip to Somersworth on Saturday afternoon to take on the Hilltoppers in an NHIAA Division III Quarterfinal game. Stevens entered the game as the 6th seed while Somersworth came in as the 3rd seed.

Stevens wasted little time in scoring as they covered 67 yards on the opening drive, in 11 plays, which was capped by a 5 yard touchdown run from Keaghan McAllister. The conversion run was no good but it was 6-0 Stevens. The Cardinals would score on their next drive after forcing the Hilltoppers to turn the ball over on downs. It took Stevens just two plays, as Quentin Bicknell laid a beautiful pass into the hands of Baylor Rozzell, who outraced the Somersworth safety to the end zone for a 66 yard touchdown. The conversion pass was incomplete but Stevens had a quick 12-0 advantage.

The second quarter brought more of the same, as the Cardinals continued to put the pressure on the favored Hilltoppers. After Nick Stone recovered a fumble, Stevens took just two plays to cover the 42 yards as Damon Roy made a great cut, broke several tackles and sprinted to pay dirt on a 40 yard touchdown run. Again the Hilltopper's stopped the conversion, but found themselves staring at an 18-0 deficit. After a dropped punt snap and Joe Desilets tackle gave the Cardinals the ball at the Hilltopper 40 yard line, Stevens would need 6 plays to score. It was McAllister again, this time scoring on a 2 yard run. Damon Roy plowed in for the two point conversion run to give Stevens a 26-0 halftime lead.

The third quarter was a defensive battle, as neither team could dent the scoreboard but Somersworth cut the deficit to 26-6 on a 2 yard touchdown run from Brogan Bonsaint to begin the final quarter. Stevens would answer with a long drive, capped by a 1 yard McAllister touchdown run. Derrick Stanhope split the uprights with his extra point kick to account for the final of 33-6.

Keaghan McAllister carried the football 26 times for 160 yards and 3 touchdowns. The 160 yards put the sophomore running back over the 1,000 yard rushing mark. McAllister is the first Stevens running back to rush for over 1,000 yards since Donald Pellerin amassed 1,524 yards rushing during the 2013 season. A big reason for those yards has been the play of the offensive line. James Aiken, Brendan Bean, Aidan Cahill, Tucker Derosier, Hunter Durkee, Isaiah Forrest, Phillip

Mason, and Nick Stone have all had a hand in paving the way for McAllister to eclipse the 1,000 yard mark. They don't often get the credit they deserve but they have controlled the line of scrimmage virtually every game. McAllister also added an interception defensively and now has 13 rushing touchdowns. Damon Roy added 94 yards on his 12 carries to go with his touchdown. Quentin Bicknell only had to throw the ball 3 times on the day but completed 2 of them for 76 yards and a touchdown while coordinating the offense throughout the day.

The Cardinals will now travel to Litchfield for a 1 PM contest on Saturday afternoon against the #2 seeded, and undefeated, Campbell Cougars in an NHIAA Division III semi-final contest. At stake is a trip to the State Championship game at the University of New Hampshire.

Changing Ways

By Priscilla Hull

All this controversy about moving from daylight savings back to regular time! I'd just as soon stay on regular time, to be honest! My mother-in-law never changed her clocks from eastern standard time, but she was never late for anything! She traveled a lot in her earlier days and always was on time for trains and busses. I asked her once if, when she went out West to visit family, if she changed her watch to local time. No, she never did! I don't know how she managed! She was an amazing woman in many ways, not the least was her mastery of time. As the world around her changed, she stayed rock solid.

She knew, though, when it was time to change. As she moved from West Virginia to Connecticut, she knew that was a good move and a good change. Then back to West Virginia for several years of happy retirement. The time came, though to change. She did so, willingly and gracefully. She came to be near us and moved successfully into this community where she happily lived out her final years, away from her home in West Virginia to her home in Claremont. She changed for her own reasons each time and made herself a success wherever she went.

Many of are not so graceful as we make life changes. We resist change and want to stick to the old ways that are comfortable and familiar. It takes effort to change and we want to save our energy for other things, things we know and are comfortable with.

You may have heard the quote, "The more things change, the more they stay the same". It is attributed to early French writings and George Bernard Shaw used it in his "The Revolutionist's Handbook" (1903). The point being, that as the world changes, and as we change, we maintain the status quo. As we find change occurring around us, we do change in order to keep up with that changing world.

We've also heard how people who resist change find themselves out of sync with what is going on around them. The result being that when we don't change we fall behind others and never quite catch up again. Our dear friends, Brian Bogle and Paul Magoon, who passed on to life eternal recently, are great examples of those who gracefully changed with the surrounding world. Thus, they were up to date in all they did. We talked once (maybe more) about how important to keep up with the changes in life, In our churches, in our community. Greatly admired and loved, they are masterful examples to follow. We can't be just like them, but we can look up to them as examples of a life well lived.

In the Gospel of John we read the words, by Jesus the Christ, "Very truly, I tell you, unless a grain of wheat falls into the earth and dies, it remains just a single grain; but if it dies, it bears much fruit." (John 12:24). This is perhaps the greatest change of all and we just take it as nature which it is. Have you looked at an avocado seed? It is a round, brown, dull looking pit, yet from that avocado seed grows a lovely tree with dark green shiny leaves. Try it! (I expect to see dozens of avocado trees around Claremont next year). Be patient, it takes a while for it to grow, but you will be rewarded when it does. Look at other seeds. They are usually dull and brown, plant them in a little dirt and watch as the little dull seed transforms into a lovely plant. Of course, it takes water, sun and love to get things to grow.

That's what happens with change, we grow. Never be satisfied with status quo. Change and grow!

"Very truly, I tell you, unless a grain of wheat falls into the earth and dies, it remains just a single grain; but if it dies, it bears much fruit." (John 12:24).

Encore: Taste of Africa

SUNAPEE, NH--Taste of Africa, a fundraiser for AIMS, is back for an encore on Nov. 11 at 5:30 p.m., at St. Joachim parish hall in Sunapee. Africa International Mission Services (AIMS) was founded by Edward Kanu of Sunapee to send material aid to his native country, Sierra Leone. Cooking and serving African foods is a way to both raise money and inform people about culture and the needs in the impoverished country of SL.

For Taste of Africa, Kanu will cook up a wide variety of staple dishes. Diners can enjoy the meal and pay by donation. After attending a previous Taste of Africa event, Cheryl Mihaley of Newport said, "The flavor really surprised me. It was authentic, spicy and interesting. When I heard the ingredients I wasn't expecting as much texture and spice. The taste reminded me of the ethnic foods cooked by Jamaican women and those from the West Indies when I worked in DC. I was delicious."

Proceeds from the fundraiser will be used to pay for shipment of a land-sea container of items to help raise the living circumstances of those in Sierra Leone. Because education is a prime focus of Kanu and AIMS (which holds a 501 (c) 3 non-profit tax status), many books aimed at the target population are ready to go. Also included are clothing, basic health care items such as soap, towels, tooth brushes and toothpaste. In previous shipments Kanu has sent a few cars and a donated school bus, with extra engine. These were filled with needed items.

The goal of AIMS is to build a school (already begun) and to begin offering a comprehensive education for the youngest children, and vocational education for young adults. The school bus will provide reliable transportation for students in place of the overcrowded and unreliable public busses.

Sierra Leone is a small impoverished country on the western coast of the African Continent. A Google search gives an idea of the naturally beautiful geography and the stark reality of some of the world's most dramatic poverty.

The website is <http://www.africaintmissionservices.org/>.

Monetary donations can also be sent directly to AIMS at 16 Central St. Sunapee NH 03782. Mr. Kanu and AIMS volunteers will be on hand to answer questions at the meal.

The shipping container will be loaded the final Saturday of November (Nov 25th) in Sunapee. Volunteers are invited to assist in this community service. You may call 763-1259 to find out times and other details about loading of the container, or more details will be given at the Taste of Africa dinner on November 11.

Professors at Dartmouth Under Investigation

CONCORD, NH--Attorney General Gordon J. MacDonald released the following statement Oct. 31 regarding the conduct of professors at Dartmouth College:

"Last week, in response to an inquiry from The Dartmouth newspaper, a Dartmouth College official stated that three professors were on paid leave, with their access to the campus restricted "pending the conclusions of ongoing investigations into allegations of serious misconduct." The official further stated that the College was engaged in a process "that protects the rights of all parties and promotes the safety of our campus community." This Office has engaged in a dialogue with Dartmouth College and we have learned from the College that it has received allegations of sexual misconduct.

"Based on the information provided, this Office, along with the Grafton County Attorney's Office, the New Hampshire State Police, the Grafton County Sheriff's Office, and the Hanover Police Department, will be conducting a joint criminal investigation into this matter. Dartmouth College has pledged to work with this investigation to ensure the safety and well-being of all members of their community.

"Anyone with information about these allegations is urged to contact Trooper Catherine Shackford of the New Hampshire State Police at (603) 419-8014 or catherine.shackford@dos.nh.gov, or Investigator Scott Gilbert, of the New Hampshire Attorney General's Office at (603) 931-9570 or scott.gilbert@doj.nh.gov."

Free and confidential services are available for anyone impacted by sexual violence through the New Hampshire Coalition Against Domestic and Sexual Violence's statewide 24-hour hotline at (800) 277-5570 or the Vermont Network Against Domestic and Sexual Violence's statewide 24-hour hotline at (800) 489-7273. In addition, free and confidential services for victims of domestic and sexual violence in the Upper Valley are also available locally through WISE and its 24-hour crisis line at (866) 348-WISE (9473). A person does not need to be in immediate crisis to call a hotline.

"Because this is now a criminal investigation, we are constrained in providing further details at this time," said MacDonald. "We will provide further information when we can do so, consistent with our obligation to ensure the integrity of the investigation. At this time, we have no basis to conclude that there is a threat to the general public."

How to Improve Your Résumé With Words

During an interview, Ernest Hemingway revealed that he rewrote the last page to A Farewell to Arms 39 times before he was satisfied. When the journalist asked what had stumped the famous author, Hemingway replied, "Getting the words right."

If your résumé isn't getting the response you desire, it may be time to take a fresh look with the goal of "perfecting your language" (as seen here with the help of Thesaurus.com).

You want to optimize your résumé for both humans and the computer software that may scan them first. Tailor your wording to speak their language. While your title may have been Sales Manager, another company may call this Business Development. When applying for a posted job, be sure to use some of the exact words in the ad – particularly the nouns and position title. This will ensure the applicant tracking system (ATS) will pass you through the gateway so a real live hiring manager will actually have the opportunity to read your résumé. And that's when those sexy verbs come into play. The Daily Muse offers 185 Powerful Verbs that you can swap out with your templated jargon to make your résumé more dynamic.

Forgo the boring listing of duties following the trite, "Responsible for..." The recruiter is far more interested in what you accomplished while performing your job functions. Here's where you pair your lively verbs with winning nouns and throw in a quantifier for good measure to create power phrases. Boring- "Responsible for client management", "Duties included sales", "Provide administrative help". Compelling- "Increased new clients by 172%", "Acquired a $2.2 million service contract", "Documented 200-275 customer notifications weekly".

And while we're on the subject of literary style, let's discuss that lackluster cover letter yawner, "Please accept my résumé in response to your ad for..." Before you even walk in the door for an interview, your cover letter is your first impression. This is your opportunity to stand out from the crowd with a carefully crafted opening sentence. I wonder how many rewrites it took the Jerry Maguire scriptwriter to polish Renee Zellweger's classic line, "You had me at 'hello.' "

Human Trafficking: States, Including New Hampshire, Taking Action

By Bernadette O'Leary

In a previous installment of my coverage of human trafficking, I interviewed a police detective, Detective Watts, who expressed how this modern day slavery can be addressed by proper communication between precincts and agencies. In separate interviews, both Det. Watts and the CEO of Destiny Rescue, a trafficking victim rescue agency, referred to human trafficking as the fastest growing crime globally. So what is being done to end this plague that destroys its victims by both the proper agencies and individuals?

I was pleased to see that individual states are cracking down. New Hampshire recently allocated more funds toward hitting this problem head-on, and according to Free the Slaves, U.S. Secretary of State Rex Tillerson says a new document titled 2017 Trafficking in Persons Report illustrates "the commitment of our country that we have this joint effort underway across the entire United States government" to combat modern slavery. People are beginning to stand up and demand action from our elected officials. Growing numbers of truckers are also joining in and fighting with Truckers Against Trafficking. Likewise, a journalist on CNN's website, Nicole Chavez, reports that police across the country have arrested over 1000 people and saved over 80 adult and juvenile victims in 17 states. Among the great work being done, more groups like Destiny Rescue, Truckers Against Trafficking, iEmpathize, and End It are being created to fight human trafficking and save its victims.

As positive as this news is, and as wonderful as it is that so many people are finally stepping up to demand action, it's not enough. Individuals have the most power, and these agencies cannot do their jobs without our help. I often hear people say that they can't do anything or that one person cannot make a difference. I also hear claims that prostitution, pornography, and even strip clubs are victimless, in spite of the links found between each of these and human trafficking. In spite of the data that reveals trafficking victims are used in these places and that the vast majority of prostitutes are bought and sold against their will, many still make this claim and call for prostitution to be legalized, thereby legalizing the torture inflicted on these men, women, and children. These are precisely the mindsets that allow trafficking to grow rapidly, and these are the mindsets that make it more difficult to fight it.

Slavery still exists. It crosses all borders of race, ethnicity, and age, and it destroys the lives of all it touches. With this in mind, I ask you... What are you doing to fight human trafficking? Visit Destiny Rescue and the other organizations listed under "Options for Help" below to see how you can fight with me today. Also, meet with your church leader today and ask them to allow you to speak to the congregation to educate them and request donations. Create a donation box and leave it outside the doors, asking everyone to donate as they leave. Then, donate it to Destiny Rescue to help a child in need, or to one of the other organizations listed below. One person can make a difference. Will you be that one person? Join me and e-Ticker News of Claremont in this fight.
