

Help NH Fish and Game Minimize Bear-Human Interactions This Spring

CONCORD, NH – The Granite State's black bears are starting to end their denning period and be actively searching for any available food sources after a long winter. With a state-wide failure of hard mast crops such as acorns and beech nuts this past fall, bears will emerge hungrier and in poorer physical condition than during typical years. E-Ticker News readers shared this past weekend that they have seen bears in Grafton, VT, Springfield, NH, and Alstead, NH so far.

As spring arrives, bears will be much more likely to turn to residential areas and take advantage of any man-made food opportunities due to their poor physical condition. As a result, officials are asking the New Hampshire public to be both proactive and responsible by taking down bird feeders no later than April 1 in the North Country, and by March 15 in central and southern parts of the state.

Additionally, residents can help to prevent attracting bears by securing dumpsters and garbage cans and storing grills, pet food, and animal feeding stations when not in use. Because of the increased likelihood of human-bear interactions this spring, residents should take extra care to secure any possible food attractants. The easiest way to solve a bear-human conflict is to prevent it in the first place. Please do your part to help protect New Hampshire's bears!

"Natural food sources that bears rely on were very scarce during summer and fall of 2018 and bears are now desperate for any available food," said Andrew Timmins, Bear Project Leader for the New Hampshire Fish and Game Department. "Bear sightings in residential areas are typically low to nonexistent during the fall. However, the lack of natural food this past year caused bears to frequent these areas in search of high-quality, human-related foods such as black-oil sunflower seed."

Building good bear-human relationships is far more successful when people are preemptive, and it is easier to avoid a conflict rather than resolve one. "Bears have an extremely acute sense of smell and long memories," said

Provided by NH Fish & Game

Timmins, "so we really need the cooperation of residents this spring to prevent emerging bears from returning to locations where they were successful in finding backyard food sources. It is harmful for bears to become conditioned to forage around homes and in residential areas because they will lose some of their natural aversion to humans. Bears are much better off in the wild."

Reports of bear activity and sightings are already beginning in some regions of New Hampshire. By taking action now, you can prevent attracting a hungry bear to your home this spring. Do not wait for a bear to discover the bird feeder, accessible garbage or other residential food attractant and then respond.

Feeding birds is a hobby that puts bears at incredible risk. Despite continued pleas asking homeowners not to feed birds during the non-winter months, bird feeders typically are the direct cause of 25% of annual bear-human encounters. There is abundant food for birds in the spring and summer, consider a bird bath or flowering plants that attract birds instead. In addition to bird feeders, other attractants include unprotected chickens and other poultry (23%) and unsecured garbage cans/dumpsters (38%). Help build respectful relationships with bears:

- Stop feeding wild birds by April 1 or at the onset of extended spring-like weather conditions, whichever comes first since conditions fluctuate throughout the state.

- Clean up any spilled birdseed and dispose of it in a secured trash container.
- Secure all garbage in airtight containers inside a garage or adequate storage area, and put garbage out on the morning of pickup, not the night before. If using a dumpster, inform your dumpster company that you need a dumpster with metal locking tops and doors that are inaccessible to bears and other wildlife.
- Never put meat or other food scraps in your compost pile. Don't leave pet food dishes outside overnight.
- Clean and store outdoor grills after each use.
- Finally, never deliberately feed bears. You will be encouraging these animals to rely on human-related foods which will deteriorate their wild behavior and reduce their survival.

For more information on reducing bear-human encounters, visit www.wildnh.com/wildlife/somethings-bruin.html.

If you have questions regarding bear-related issues, you can get advice by calling a toll-free number coordinated jointly by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Wildlife Services and the New Hampshire Fish and Game Department: 1-888-749-2327 (1-888-SHY-BEAR).

“Let's Go Fishing” Program Seeks New Volunteers

CONCORD, NH – Are you an angler who is looking to give back to the fishing community? Do you want to share your love of fishing? The New Hampshire Fish and Game Department's Let's Go Fishing program is currently seeking new volunteer instructors to take part in our educational fishing programs around the state. All levels of fishing experience are welcomed.

The one-day training for new instructors on Basic Fishing will take place on Saturday, April 13 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and the one day training for new instructors on Fly Fishing will be held on Sunday April 14 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Both seminars will be held at Fish and Game Department Headquarters, 11 Hazen Drive, Concord NH. All materials and lunch will be provided.

If you're interested in attending, please download an application at www.wildlife.state.nh.us/fishing/lgf-job.html. Once the form is completed and notarized, please either email it to lisa.collins@wildlife.nh.gov or mail it to Lisa Collins, Lets Go Fishing, NH Fish and Game Department, 11 Hazen Drive, Concord, NH 03301 to reserve your seat in the program.

Growlers Sweep Weekend With 5-2 Victory Over Monarchs

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND – The Manchester Monarchs fell on their second straight night to the Newfoundland Growlers on Saturday from the Mile One Centre, by a score of 5-2.

The Monarchs (36-29-2-2) allowed four unanswered goals in the first two periods to the Growlers (43-20-4-2) and fell, 5-2, on the evening.

Newfoundland got on the board at 11:21 of the first period on the 28th goal of the season by Scott Pooley. The puck bounced off the end wall to the right side of the net, where Pooley pounced on it and snuck a shot past the glove of Monarchs goaltender Charles Williams, giving the Growlers a 1-0 lead.

The Growlers extended their lead at 12:45 of the first period on the second goal of the game and 29th of the season for Pooley. Matt Bradley stole the puck off the stick of Monarchs defenseman Brendan Miller, behind the net and centered a pass to Pooley, who one-timed a shot past Williams, making the score, 2-0.

The Growlers extended their lead at 1:23 of the second period on the 29th goal of the season by Brady Ferguson. Zach O'Brien dropped a pass to the high-slot for Ferguson, who wristed a shot over the blocker of Williams, to make the score, 3-0.

The Growlers added another at 4:20 of the second period, chasing Williams from the game, when Marcus Power scored his 23rd goal of the season on the power play. Manchester made it a three-goal game at :48 of the third period, on the power play, on the eighth goal of the season by Jack Nevins. Matheson Iacopelli backhanded a pass towards the slot, that Nevins roofed, over the blocker of Growlers goaltender Michael Garteig, to make the score, 4-1.

The Growlers responded at 3:14 of the third period on Josh Kestner's 22nd goal of the season. Kestner broke into the offensive zone and snapped a shot past Monarchs goaltender Cole Kehler, making the score, 5-1.

The Monarchs got one back at 7:49 of the third period on the power play, when Sam Kurker netted his 16th of the season. Kurker received a pass from David Kolomatis at the top of the circles, where he fired a wrist shot past the pad of Garteig, making the score, 5-2. The Monarchs return to action Wednesday, April 3 at 7:05 p.m., when they take on the Worcester Railers at the DCU Center.

April Fool!

By Priscilla Hull

Have you ever played an April Fool joke that backfired? I did! Have you ever played an April Fool joke that had such a happy ending that you played it over and over in your head (The original could never be duplicated!). I had a part in this, too.

My husband, God rest his soul, loved to play jokes. He loved to laugh and he lived to hear others laughing. He also didn't mind when a joke was played on him, and laughed at that, too! We were just newly together and working at a hospital in New York State. The hospital had dormitories (separate for men and women). I lived for a while in the dormitory and couldn't wait to get out. I found a neat little apartment about two miles from the hospital and in time he moved in. He lifted weights most afternoons, so we drove separate cars to work. I went out on a break in my schedule and moved his car from near the gymnasium to the other side of the hospital where it couldn't be seen. Then I went about my business of the day and home to prepare supper. Gary was later than usual and he was kind of huffing and puffing when he came in.

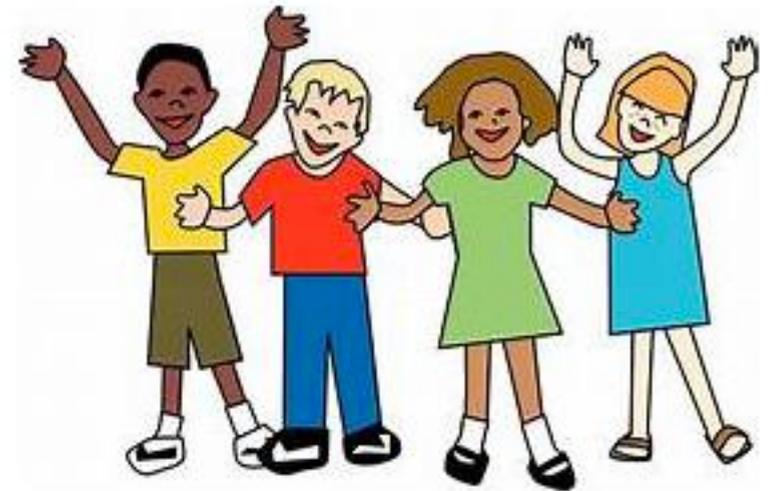

"What's wrong?" I asked. "I think my car was stolen." I kind of giggled, but he was so serious. I asked if he had looked around all the parking lots and he assured me that he had! Now, I'm not giggling any longer. So we went back to the hospital and I drove to where I had left it! Sure enough, it wasn't there! Now, I'm beginning to panic, but he's beginning to giggle! So I kicked him out of the car and followed as he walked over to where he had hidden the car - off campus. About a quarter mile away! We laughed our way through dinner! April Fool that backfired!

The other was such fun in the planning and the execution. We lived at the bottom of a hill, Mom lived at the top. Every morning I either called her or went up and had coffee with her. Easter fell on March 30 in the mid 80s and at that time, the schools usually were closed the week after Easter. Perfect setting for my sister and her family to drive up on Monday, March 31. Mom's birthday was April 1. She had two older brother who loved jokes and to play jokes on her. So by the time she was 80 nothing was new. Except . . . Yes, we planned it right! Sister and family came up to our house on Monday. I know they were all dying to see Mom, but they waited. I went up as usual that evening to get her comfy in bed. Tuesday morning - April 1st. I called her. I actually said, "Katie and all are coming today. April Fool!" They and my family had started walking up the hill. I told her to look out the window and heard her laughter as she recognized the gang walking up the hill! We had a great birthday for her and a wonderful vacation.

Two different results to April Fools jokes! May you have a happy, fun filled day today. Happy birthday to my sweet Mama in heaven.

*At that time we laughed loudly and shouted for joy. At that time the nations said, "The Lord has accomplished great things for these people."

Program to Focus on Draft Animals in New England

NEWPORT, NH—The Sullivan County Chapter of the N.H. Timberland Owners Association (NHTOA) will meet for a potluck supper, annual meeting and program Saturday, April 6, in the Ahern Building at the Sullivan County Complex, 103 County Farm Road, Unity.

The potluck supper will start at 5 p.m. followed by the chapter's annual business meeting, including election of officers for 2019.

Jasen Stock, executive director of the NHTOA, will offer a brief update of the NHTOA's advocacy work before the N.H. Legislature on behalf of the forest products industry.

Following the business meeting, Dave Anderson, senior director of education for the Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests, will present "Maple Sugaring – Myth, Magic and Realities." Anderson will offer a humorous look – well illustrated with photographs – at the dark-amber side of backyard maple sugaring at Meetinghouse Hill Tree Farm, also known as "the quest for the $15,000 pancake."

Anderson built a post-and-beam sugarhouse from timber cut and milled at his farm in South Sutton. Anderson is writer and co-host for the "Something Wild" feature on New Hampshire Public Radio and writes "Nature's View," a column published in the Forest Society's quarterly magazine "Forest Notes."

The Sullivan County Chapter of the NHTOA organizes and runs the Woodsmen's Field Day Competition set for Saturday, Aug. 17 during the Cornish Fair.

The NHTOA, a statewide trade association, has members throughout New Hampshire. Founded in 1911, the NHTOA represents all aspects of the forest products industry including landowners, foresters, loggers, truckers, mill owners and others. The forest products industry contributes more than $3.8 billion annually, including forest-based manufacturing and forest-based recreation, or nearly 5 percent of New Hampshire's Gross State Product.

Celebrate Local Food at the 18th Annual Flavors of the Valley

WHITE RIVER JCT, VT—Taste the flavors of the Upper Valley at the region's premier local food expo, Flavors of the Valley. The 18th annual Vital Communities event is set for Sunday, April 7, from 11:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. at the Hartford High School gymnasium.

Attendees sample local foods from more than 45 vendors—including fresh produce, artisan breads, award-winning cheese, tasty jams, hand-crafted sweets and more. It's the not-to-be-missed event of the year for everyone who loves local food.

New in 2019, Vital Communities is selling a limited number of discounted advance tickets at vitalcommunities.org/flavors. Advance ticket holders can enjoy a quieter first hour of the event from 11:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. General admission tickets will be available at the door starting at 12:00 p.m. Tickets are $10 per person or $30 per family in advance, or $12 per person or $35 per family at the door. Children under seven are free. Cash, check, and credit are accepted at the door.

"Every year, Flavors of the Valley kicks off spring in the Upper Valley. It's really a celebration! Attendees get to taste everything our farms have to offer, connect with old and new businesses, and visit with old and new friends," said Becka Warren, Food & Farm Communications Coordinator at Vital Communities. "The Hartford High School gym is full of smiles and satisfied taste buds. We can't wait!"

Attendees should bring their own plates, cups and utensils to help make this zero-waste event a success. Those who bike to Flavors of the Valley can enter to win special prizes. This year's Vital Communities 25th Anniversary Super Quest will debut at the event, so Questers can get a head start on the adventure before the official May 1 launch date.

See a list of Flavors of the Valley vendors for 2019 and buy advance tickets online at vitalcommunities.org/flavors.

9 Great Words to Use on Your Resume

"Passionate": One of the most important things employers look for is how much you care about the work you do.

"Innovative": There's always a place for people who think outside the box.

"Achieved": It's smart to include action verbs that highlight your professional accomplishments.

"Developed": Companies also want to see that people who have been in their industries for a long time are growing in their roles.

"Saved": Businesses are always looking to improve their profit margins, and if you've helped another firm do so, that can make you an ideal candidate.

"Modernized": If you helped push decision-making in the right direction at an old employer, that could show off your cutting-edge thinking for a prospective employer as well.

"Launched": Along similar lines, if there are any successful programs for which you were instrumental in getting off the ground, potential employers should know about it.

"Spearheaded": Shake things up a bit and find interesting new ways to say - and show - you've been a leader for some time will certainly help your resume stand out from a crowded field of applicants

"Value": Value is what businesses run on, and you need to be able to demonstrate why you ultimately bring it to the table.

Celebrate the 100th Anniversary of Pete Seeger's Birth

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, VT—Gumbo, Grits & Gravy was formed in January 2019 by Guy Davis, Marcella Simien, and Anne Harris at a studio venue outside of Boston. Long time devotees of the late Pete Seeger, they were looking for a way to honor him on his 100th birth date. Kirschner Concerts and Twin Cloud Concerts have joined together to make that happen at the Briggs Opera House in downtown White River Junction, Vermont beginning at 8:00pm on Saturday, May 4. Proceeds from the evening will go to support The Haven of White River Junction, and to help get started, The Friends of Pete Seeger Foundation.

Tickets may be purchased by visiting the ticket website: <http://bit.ly/2GumboGritsGravy-May4>.

Tickets are $25 and it is suggested that since the venue is small, that they be purchased in advance. There are a limited number of VIP tickets available for $40 that include premium seating, a post-show get together with the artists, and other surprises. Ticket prices do not include sales tax and ticketing fees.

"This show brings Pete Seeger's life full circle in his recent history here in the Upper Valley," said co-producer Thom Wolke of Twin Cloud Concerts. Wolke produced a fundraising concert with Pete Seeger, his grandson, and Guy Davis at the Lebanon Opera House in 2008. The Trio performed eighteen shows that summer around the northeast, and helped raise close to a quarter million dollars for non-profits in the U.S. and Canada.

"Guy was like a second son to Pete, and was playing music with David Amram and one or two other musicians at Pete Seeger's hospital bedside hours before he passed," Wolke said, "Rushing down to New York City, I missed the music, but was at Pete's side when he breathed his last."

The vision behind Gumbo Grits & Gravy is to celebrate diversity, culture, family, love and food through a musical gumbo of style and tradition. In a review of Gumbo, Grits & Gravy, writer Bill Hurley wrote, "This music has a restorative, rejuvenating quality to it. The average listener has no idea what the words to 'Jolie Basset' mean but it is the quintessential example of why music is such a powerful and universal language. I don't know what it means but I know what it expresses because I see how Marcella Simien expresses it. It is expected that Gumbo, Grits & Gravy will perform some songs written by, or made famous by, the late Pete Seeger.

Woody W. Ballard, 42

Woody Wade Ballard, 42, died at his home in Unity on Tuesday, March 19. He was the son of Dennis and Adele (Wade) Ballard, born June 2, 1976 in Fort Ord, CA. He leaves his father, a son, Blake (Nathan), brother, Barry and sister-in-law LeeAnn, and sister, Cathy who are all living in Florida.

His mother predeceased him in 2011. Woody grew up in the Enfield – Lebanon areas well as Claremont, and lived his last 28 years in Unity with his step-father, Bruce Howard and housemate, Terry Howard. Woody suffered with epilepsy so he couldn't drive a car. He worked odd jobs and yard work that he could walk to, and many people saw him and gave him rides as he walked back and forth to Claremont. He had a kind heart and loved living near the woods to see the deer, bear and other wild animals. He leaves many friends in Unity. He is missed.

There will be no visiting hours, and donations are accepted gratefully for his burial.

Graveside committal services will be held at 1:00 p.m. on Thursday, April 11, in St. Mary's Cemetery. Please contact Judi Tatem at 603-543-0955 or Bruce Howard at 603-477-3364 for donations.

You are invited to share a memory of Woody with the family or leave a message of condolence in the family guest book at www.royfuneralhome.com. Arrangements have been entrusted to the Roy Funeral Home and Cremation Service.

Movie Night Review: Ralph Breaks the Internet

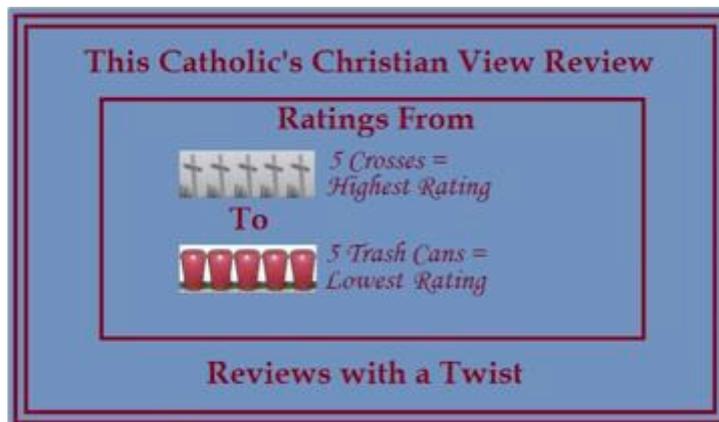

By Bernadette O’Leary

My family was excited to get Ralph Breaks the Internet, but upon seeing the incredibly annoying Main Menu, my first agonized thought was, “It’s got to get better from here.” My family enjoys watching the Main Menus on DVDs. As silly as that may sound to some, my kids like watching them, and some of them have extra pop-ups that offer more fun when clicked on. Main Menus have become a source of entertainment all to themselves, and many offer a glimpse of what is to come. Thankfully, this particular Main Menu was not an indication of the movie itself.

The story starts out with the arcade getting Wi-Fi, and Vanellope’s game and home, Sugar Rush, getting broken after Ralph messes with its settings to give it additional racetrack options. Thanks to the new Wi-Fi, a new part for the game is found online. So, Ralph and Vanellope head off to get it in hopes of saving the game from being scrapped by the arcade owner. The adventure that follows takes the characters to the internet, where they encounter a host of colorful characters from a tough racer named Shank to Disney princesses that are not your typical princess.

On a side note, one of the great highlights of the film was the song “Zero” by Imagine Dragons.

While the Main Menu was poorly developed and obnoxious, the film itself was great fun, full of humor, action and touching moments. With great messages of friendship and knowing your worth, I give Ralph Breaks the Internet 4.5 Crosses. Overall, it was a great movie that was fun for my entire family. I recommend this film to movie viewers of all ages. Ralph Breaks the Internet, the sequel to Wreck it Ralph, is on DVD now. For your next movie night, pick it up, pop the corn and enjoy!
